The Seat Arona features a contemporary and dynamic design. Like many SUVs in its class, it often has a raised driving position, giving the driver a better view of the road. The exterior design tends to be sporty and modern, in line with Seat's design language. The interior of the Seat Arona is designed to be practical and comfortable. It usually accommodates five passengers and provides a good amount of headroom and legroom. The interior features may include modern infotainment systems, connectivity options, and driver assistance technologies. Modern Seat vehicles, including the Arona, come equipped with a variety of features. These include touchscreen infotainment systems, smartphone integration (such as Apple CarPlay and Android Auto), advanced safety features, and other amenities aimed at enhancing the overall driving experience. Safety is a priority in the design of the Seat Arona. It includes safety features such as airbags, stability control, anti-lock brakes, and other advanced driver assistance systems. The specifics of the safety features can vary depending on the trim level and options selected
